URGES BROADENING NAVAL LIMITATIONS SCOPE

JESS BULL KILLED YESTERDAY BY AN UNKNOWN PERSON

Miner Shot From Ambush When Returning From Work at S. and S. Mines—Died Few Minutes Later.

THOMAS BARNETT ARRESTED IN CONNECTION WITH KILLING

Jess Bull, a miner age 38, was shot and killed yesterday afternoon about 3:15 o'clock near the S. and S Coal company mines near Binghamtown. Thomas Barnett, age 22, was arrested last night and is now held in the city jail in connection with the crime.

Bull was returning from his work at the mines by a lonely woodland road when the two shots were fired form ambush. When found by C. C. Smith and a man named Jones who had heard the shot and had come to investigate, he told the men that he had been shot from ambush. A few minutes later he died.

One bullet had entered his right side, going through his body almost to the skin on the other side. Another struck him in the right cheek near the mouth and came out on the left side. Several of his teeth were torn from his mouth.

The sheriff being absent from the county, Chief of Police H. E. Ball was notified and went to the scene of the crime accompanied by two of his men Two .38 caliber Winchester empty shells were found near the place where the deceased met his death.

Barnett Had Quarreled With Bull.

Search for clues that would disclose the identity of the slayer continued on through the greater part of the night. Thomas Barnett who, it is said, had some difficulty with Jess Bull on last Thanksgiving Day was arrested. Chief Ball is of the opinion that the youth is not guilty, as he seems to have left his work at the Yellow Hill mine at 3:30 in the afternoon, 15 minutes before the man was shot. Barnett does not have the appearance of being the guilty man, according to the officers, and he will perhaps be released as soon as his alibi has been properly checked up and substantiated.

"If Bull had any private enemies with the possible exception of Barnett we have been unable to locate them," said Chief Ball, "he was a good citizen and well liked in his community and in Middlesboro."

Bull Once Convicted of Murder.

About twenty years ago the murdered man was tried for the slaying of a negro in a saloon here, and though firmly maintaining his innocence, was convicted for the crime and sentenced to the penitentiary for life. A few years later, however, he was released on parole. Since that time, according to Chief Ball, he has not been in any trouble.

The body of the deceased was removed to the Callison Undertaking parlors soon after the tragedy where the bullet which had entered his right side was found just under the skin on the left side The body was later prepared for burial.

Funeral arrangements have not been made yet The deceased is survived by his father, Dave Bull and four brothers, Tom, Filmore and Sam Bull of this city, and George Bull of Gadless; also by five sisters: Mrs. Neal Russell, Mrs. William Haynes, Mrs. John Wilton, Mrs. T. J. Theeten and Miss Lula Bull.

The Shepherd Circle of the First Baptist church will meet Thursday afternoon at 2:30 in the Church parlors. All members are urged to be present.

The Zella Bryant Circle of the First Baptist Church will hold its regular meeting this week. Announcement will be made later of the place of the next meeting.

H. R. GILES STORE ROBBED LAST NIGHT

Safe Blown Open With Gunpowder But Bold Burglars Get No Money.

The store of H R. Giles in East End was entered by burglars early this morning. An iron safe was blown open with powder taken from shot gun shells, but no money was taken, this having been removed by Mrs. Giles last night. The identity of the yeggs is not known. Some pennies were taken from the cash register, but a $2.50 gold piece was overlooked by the marauders. Entrance to the building was made by forcing the lock of the front door.

The safe was removed from the building and rolled and carried to the creek bank, a distance of about a hundred and fifty yards Two boxes of shot-gun shells, emptied of their powder, were found near the safe, also a box of loaded shells. A burnt dynamite case which had evidently been used to set off the explosion was found The explosives were taken from the store. Noise of the explosion was heard by neighbors about 3 o'clock this morning.

Several fresh foot-prints, some of them apparently made by a woman's shoe, were in evidence Two men's gloves, a cloth one within a heavier one were also found. These and the foot-prints seem to be the only clues left by the robbers.

Mr. Giles was in Cincinnati on business and did not return until about 5 o'clock this morning. Mrs. Giles who managed the business of the store during his absence, took the money and the valuable papers from the safe before closing last night. With the exception of the cartridges, the fuse and the pennies, nothing was missed from the store.

The police department was notified of the burglary as soon as it was discovered this morning and are now working on the case. It is thought that the crime was committed by the same gang who, a few nights ago, blew open and robbed the Boudurant wholesale store at Tazewell, as powder from shot-gun shells was likewise used in this instance.

This is the second time Mr. Giles safe has been torn open by robbers, the other burglary having been committed about six years ago He is a prominent business man of the city and is alderman in the East End.

Mrs. Annie Cross Dies.

Mrs. Annie Cross, age 22, died at her home near Yeary's Chapel this morning at 2 o'clock. She is survived by her husband, Tom Cross, her father, Charles Brooks, two small children, one brother, Paul Brooks and two sisters, Mrs. Alva Carpenter of this city and Mrs. Ruth Williams of Shamrock. Funeral services will be held at 11 o'clock tomorrow.

MINISTERS OF CITY ALL FAVOR COMMUNITY CHEST

Would Be Effieient and Systematic Way of Collecting and Distributing Charity Funds—Save Time and Expense.

ALL FAVOR ELIMINATION OF MULTITUDINOUS DRIVES

That the community chest would be an efficient and systematic method of collecting contributions for charity and that it would save a great deal of time and expense necessitated in making various drives throughout the year, seems to be the consensus of opinion of ministers of the city. Without a single exception they voiced their hearty approval of the plan and promised their utmost aid and cooperation in launching and carrying out the movement.

"I have always advocated the establishment of an associated charities organization here," said the Rev. A B. Reeves, pastor of the Christian church, "and the community chest would be something on the same order. The people of Middlesboro are charitably inclined but they have been worried by a multiplicity of drives and campaigns. It seems to me that our present system of collecting donations is altogether too loose and inefficient and I believe that the community chest would improve matters. In my opinion a board of brand new directors should be appointed to manage the charitable funds. Being new, they would be eager to take up the work and carry it out as it should be."

Only Way to Handle Charity.

"The community chest plan is the only sensible and businesslike way to handle the matter of charities here," declared the Rev. S. P Martin, pastor of the First Baptist Church. "It would save the multitudinous drives that we have and do away with a great deal of hard feeling which results from one interest thinking that it is being overlooked and another interest from being overworked. I think," continued Mr. Martin, that funds from from the community chest then should be managed by a representative board from the various organizations in Middlesboro, a board which would command the respect and confidence of every one in town."

"The plan has worked fine in other cities," declared Dr. J. A. Gray, minister of the Presbyterian church. "and I don't see why it should fail here. The members of the community chest board could find out what their budget should be for the year, and then one drive could be made to meet this expense. In cities where the plan has been tried out, neither the business men who have to bear the burden of charity nor the charitable organizations would have any other system. I am heartily in favor of the plan and believe that the majority of the people here are of the same mind."

Should have Been Done Long Ago.

"It is really nothing more than what we should have done long ago," said the Rev. W. K. McClure, pastor of the M. E. Church, South. "It is a movement forward and one that I believe will win the approval of the general public and the charitable organizations. It will enable us to do what we ought to do and that without being harassed by frequent drives."

"It is the only feasible method of collecting for charities," said the Rev. R. D. Baldwin, rector of the Episcopal church "It is the duty of every one to give, but they will do this more freely if they can give it all at once and not be bothered so frequently with drives and campaigns. It is a splendid idea and one that I am heartily in favor of adopting."

"I advocated the community chest system when I first came to the city," said Commandant C. Cuthbert, of the local Salvation Army organization, "and I understand that my predecessor had advocated it before he left. In Cincinnati and other large cities the plan has met with great success. The Salvation Army will lend its utmost cooperation in carrying out the movement.

"I think the plan is the logical solution to our local charity problem," said Rev. E. F. Burnside, pastor of the First M. E. church. "I am of the opinion that a standing committee should be appointed which would go about the matter in a businesslike manner. Haphazard methods, of course, would not materially remedy conditions."

TRIAL OF SCOBEE HARDMAN ENTERS THIRD DAY TODAY

Commonwealth Witnesses Support Contention That Defendant and Reese Fox Drove From Renaker Home Night of Murder.

DEFENSE WILL TRY PROVING ALIBI AND GOOD CHARACTER

By Associated Press

WINCHESTER, Dec. 13.—Trial of Scobee Hardman, charged with the murder of Leon Renaker, wealthy Winchester business man, entered the third day today. Hearing testimony by the Commonwelth witnesses, begun yesterday, was resumed. The court attaches saw possibility that introduction of evidence by the Commonwealth might be completed by tonight.

Witnesses put on the stand during the forenoon session by the Commonwealth support its contention that Hardman and Reese Fox drove an automobile from the Renaker home the night of the murder. Hardin Smith, ferryman at Boonesboro, testified he ferried both men across the river after midnight July 24. He said both men were in the automobile. Thomas Blackey of Winchester testified he heard a rapidly moving automobile coming down thes treet from the direction of the Renaker home but did not see it. He said it was after midnight but he could not fix the time of the week.

Smith was the outstanding witness of the forenoon session. Other witnesses testified about the barge on which the young people gave a party as relating to the time Hardman and Fox are said to have crossed the river. The Commonwealth attorney, today flouted the story that an irate husband whose wife was on alleged friendly relations with Renaker was responsible for the murder and that it would be the principal defense of Hardman. It was said in other quarters that an alibi and and attempts to prove the good character of Hardman were likely to be the principal defense.

ANNUAL NAVAL BILL SAYS COMPETITION IS ON AGAIN NOW

If Allowed To Go Unchecked, Report Says, This Government Must Launch New Program To Keep Abreast of Other Powers.

WOULD LIMIT BUILDING ALL FUTURE WAR AND AIR CRAFTS

By Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—A request that President Harding seek to broaden the scope of naval limitation agreement included in the annual naval bill was reported today by the House Appropulations Committee. "Competition is on again," the report said, "in the single direction to which unrated agreement does not extend and if allowed to go on unchecked the purse strings again must be relaxed and this government, like all others, will be contsrained to launch upon a new program to the extent necessary to keep us at least abreast of other powers." In the report the committee pointed out that the arms conference did not limit the number of types of smaller vessels up to the maximum size and information reached Congress that "already large programs were planned of vessels up to the maximum of the size permitted under the agreement, and that the new and larger types of sub-surface craft had begun to put in their appearance." The President was asked to negotiate with Great Britain, France, Italy and Japan for agreement to limit future building of all war craft having a tonnage of ten thousand or less and all classes of air craft.

A THOUGHT

Commit thy works unto the Lord, and thy thought shall be established. Proverbs 16:3.

There is no victory possible without humility and magnanimity, and no magnanimity or humility possible without an ideal; and there is not one who has not heard the call in his own heart to put aside all evil habits, and to live a brave, simple, truthful life. —Thomas Hughes.

TEN THOUSAND MURDERS IN A YEAR

More than 10,000 murders were committed in the United States during 1921. This is revealed by a check-up conducted by Dr. Frederick L. Hoffman, consulting statistician of the Prudential Insurance Company.

Hoffman found that 28 leading cities with combined population of 20,378,770, had 1910 murders last year.

On a population basis, this is over 10,000 known murders for the whole country. To them must be added the unknown number of murders that are successfully concealed and do not show up in the police reports. These probably run into thousands.

The death toll should draw a grim smile from the Turks, next time America gets excited about Armenian massacres.

Open pigeonholes in your memory compare records and the thought occurs to you that just about as many Americans are murdered as are killed by autos.

Hard to decide which of the two is more amazing.

Picture a town of 10,000 inhabitants, all murdered in cold blood during one night. A frightful picture. But it's a true picture of the murder situation in so-called civilized America.

Spread out over a gigantic territory and divide among our millions of people, with a murder here and there, day after day, and we lose sight of the terrible total.

Dr. Hoffman found that the 1921 murder rate was a fraction more than nine out of every 100,000 Americans.

Allowing for concealed murders that are never definitely discovered, including many missing persons cases, a conservative estimate is that one American in every 10,000 is murdered yearly.

Meaning: Your chance of being slain is one in 10,000 each year, one in 1,000 over a period of ten years. Figure it up over a lifetime, and if you lived 100 years, one chance in 100 of being murdered.

A dreadful penalty for permitting the sale of pistols which are the death instruments in the majority of murders.

The brighter side of the picture is, that while more than 10,000 are murdered yearly at least 108,000,000 are not murdered. As in all forms of crime, evil is far and away in the minority. That is why evil gets so much attention—it's the exception, the unusual.

LOUISVILLE TO HAVE A MODERN NEW BALL PARK

By Associated Press.

Louisville Dec. 12.—From the charred and twisted ironwork and timbers left by fire which destroyed Eclipse park, historic home of the Louisville American League baseball club, will rise a new concrete and steel stadium modelled after the home of the Chicago Cubs park.

Captain William Neal, vice president of the Louisville club, Wathen Knebelkamp, secretary treasurer, and Leslie Abbott, architect of the new home for the Colonels, made a thorough inspection of the Cubs park, and Captain Neal declared that it surpassed any major league park and that his new plant, to cost $100,000 will rank the same among minor parks.

The new grand-stand, as planned, is to seat 12,000 persons and will be so constructed that an additional deck can be added if needed. Other facilities will combine to make it a paragon among minor league parks, the owners plan.

Eclipse park, in its career of more than 20 years, has been the scene of many deciding battles, both of the gridiron and diamond variety. Centre College often played some of its home games there for the benefit of Louisvillians and because facilities at Danville are often inadequate.

The new plant will be finished in time for next season's opening games, it is planned. Immediate steps looking towards construction are to be taken.

Berton Braley's Daily Poem

NOT FOR ME

By Berton Braley

He didn't like his father and he didn't like his mother,
He couldn't stand his sister and he loathed his elder brother,
He thought his playmates vulgar and his neighbors stupid fools
Who lived by silly standards and by puritanic rules.
He felt the whole community was out to chain and bind him,
And as soon as he was old enough he left it all behind him.

He left that simple village life which he had soundly hated,
And thought that in the city he would be appreciated.
So in the great metropolis he started his careering,
But presently he found himself continually sneering
At all the narrow-minded folks among whom he meandered;
There wasn't anyone he met who seemed to fit his standard.

He talked about a something which he called the "Greater Freedom,"
But people seemed too occupied to follow where he'd lead 'em.
He called the crowd "intolerant"—he spoke with some asperity—
And yet he wouldn't tolerate or view with any charity
The worries of the multitudes, whatever they might be;
"Alas," he cried, "this narrow world is out of step with me!"

A most unpleasant person with an ego overbearing,
For whom no normal mortal could conceivably be caring,
And yet you are expected to be highly sympathetic
With all of his reactions and his grouches energetic.
Well, I for one, asseverate that I refuse to grovel
Before this peevish "Hero" of the "Realistic Novel!"

THE ONE-MAN WOMAN

By Ruth Agnes Abeling.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

DAN WARD has just died, leaving a widow,

KATE, She, her mind filled with thoughts of the ideal hapiness of their married life, starts for her parents' home in a small inland city

GO ON WITH THE STORY

There, in the gloom of her birth, with the train speeding past small villages, vast stretches of open country, Kate Ward went over that one day which stood out beyond all others.

She remembered every nuance of her mother's voice as the words came from the doorway—"What, you back?" Whisperingly she repeated them.

She hadn't been much past 18 then, a developed little thing for that age, with almost too much of the woman about her. There was too much of an air of knowing, something tragic in the droop of her shoulders. All through the years that followed when she saw girls so young with that air of knowing and that pitiful droop, she wanted to run after them and take them home somewhere to a mother who wouldn't say:

"What—you back?"

Kate had brushed past her mother that day and had gone to the little room under the eaves. There, among the things she had known in those gay days before she had measured her strength against a city, she cried.

Perhaps, if her mother had gone then to the room under the eaves, everything in Kate Ward's life would have been different. But her mother had cucumbers to put up, the kitchen to sweep and the neighbors to gossip with.

So 18-year-old Kate flung down on the blue and white patchwork quilt, cried it out alone. Cried it out until her heart was void of tears and could not even ache any more.

Kate Ward never cried after that day—not once during all the perilous months which followed.

Finally she washed away the traces of tears, followed the washing with daubs of pink, and sat down quietly to wait.

She wouldn't go downstairs. She'd just wait until dusk.

As the supper hour neared she heard her father's voice and then listened as his heavy boots clumped over the kitchen floor. He wasn't coming up! But then, the door of her room was closed and she wouldn't have opened it anyway. She wondered for a second what she would have done if he had come up and opened the door. She decided she would have slipped under the bed. Just there her heart almost softened. There were tears on the verge of being. She fought with herself. And came out winner, if a little hardened.

She had never got along very well with her mother. And perhaps she shouldn't have gone to the city. Then there were the tales that drifted back. Part of them true.

But weren't mothers and homes supposed to be things you could always count on? The other girls said that was true. And she had started back from the city with such a vow to be good forever and forever.

But—"What—you back?"—

She hardened under the lash of it and she hated:

It was dark when 18-year-old Kate dropped the little traveling bag out of the window. In a few minutes she swung from the sill and dropped the short distance to the soft earth below.

Off down the shadowy path she went.

Katie was once more on the open road.

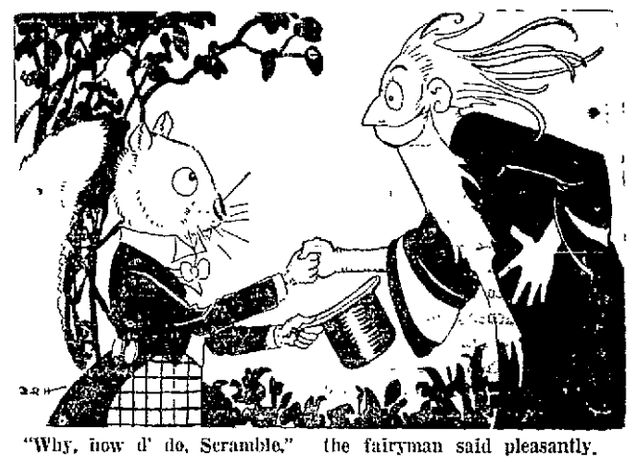
Adventures of The Twins

By Olive Roberts Barton



"Why, how d' do, Scramble," the fairyman said pleasantly.

NO SHOES FOR SQUIRREL

It was Scramble Squirrel who wanted the next favor from the Green Wizard.

He climbed to the top of the pine tree where the Green Wizard had his workshop and made his magic.

"Why, how do you do, Scramble," the fairyman said pleasantly. "You are quite a stranger. I am glad to see you."

"Thank you," answered Scramble uneasily and looking as though there was something on his mind. "I —I hope you are glad enough to see me to do me a favor, sir."

"Why, it just depends," remarked the Green Wizard. "It just all depends on what you want."

"Well, you see, it's this way," said Scramble. "Sometimes I like to go out o' nights and play checkers with my friends, or dominoes, or something like that. And sometimes I get so interested I forget what time it is. And then when I go home, Samantha wakes up and she is generally so mad she gives me fits for staying out so late. I was thinking, sir, that a pair of magic shoes that didn't make any noise and wake her up, might help some."

"Oh, I see, I see," answered the fairyman wisely, shaking his head and putting his finger-tips together.

"Will you?" asked Scramble anxiously.

"I'll have to think," answered the fairyman. "I am not sure that I can. Did you say you went out alone at night?"

"Why, yes!" answered Scramble.

"You see Samantha's always too tired after washing and ironing and cooking and sewing all day, she has to go to bed early."

"And what do you do all day?"

"Oh, why I have to gather nuts and acorns for winter. And you know how it is. I always meet people and they want to stop and chatter. I don't get much else done."

"Well, I guess I'm out of magic shoes just now," answered the Wizard soberly. "My advice is to stay at home nights or else take your wife along. Mr. Squirrel, I'll wish you good-day, sir."

TO STANDARDIZE DIVORCE LAWS

New Congresswoman Wants Federal Legislation For Present Conflicting Statutes

By WINIFRED MASON HUCK
Congresswoman at Large From Illinois

CHICAGO Dec 12—Uniform federal legislation to unify present conflicting state divorce laws is the crying need of the day

Until such reform can be brought about justice to litigant parties—especially in cases where children are concerned—will continue to fall short of the mark

I am heartily in favor of Senator Jones resolution sponsoring such action by the government and will lend my full support to it because it commands the highest good for all concerned

WINIFRED MASON HUCK

I believe it to be a far sighted measure

Though not personally advocating divorce, I believe that so long as there are laws governing it these laws should be administered in a broad and intelligent way

This should be done in such a manner that the big things—the home and life—affected by divorce will not be criss crossed by a variety of contradictory state statutes

Make Lovely Gifts

There is nothing which adds so much to the brightness and Cheerfulness of home as appropriate glass or pottery. The blues, ambers, lavenders and reds of both foreign and domestic glass and pottery, found in our shop, are a joy to behold and possess.

Welcome bits of color are interesting candlesticks, scent vases in pairs, zower bowls in wisteria, Chinese blue, sea green and amber, sparkles from which would brighten any gloomy nook, or corner

A Wedgewood vase of soft cream in chaste and classical lines, or a flower basket of Italian faince would make a handsome center piece under a mirror, on a table or perhaps on the mantle piece. An Italian pottery pitcher of an Alice blue provides a stunning setting for a mass of golden rod, autumn leaves, or golden glow.

Nights

The day ends,
The task is done,
Peace attends
The setting sun.

Tired hands
Come home to rest,
Life disbands
Her worst and best.

Out of line
Her soldiers fall,
Beach and mine
And market stall.

Great affairs
And little cease,
Night declares
An armistice

Vain to ask
The night to wait,
Leave the task
And follow straight.

Other days,
May come, but this
Finished, stays
The way it is.

Death, as night,
Comes when it will,
Fades the light
And all is still.

Vain to ask
Of death to wait,
Leave the task
And follow straight.

Good Manners

During a song, the performance of an instrumental musical selection or a recitation at a social gathering, an appreciative silence should be maintained by the other guests, from the start until the moment comes for applause. Continued conversation even in an undertone, or any other disturbance at such a time should be scrupulously avoided.

SCHOOL CHILDREN WILL DONATE BASKETS TO POOR

Christmas baskets made up of food donated by the school children will be distributed to indigent families of the City under the direction of Miss Wilhelmine Marx, Red Cross nurse, on Friday before Christmas.

The Christmas basket idea was carried out very literally last year by the cooperation of the pupils and their parents, 112 baskets having been provided. It is hoped that as many baskets will be brought this year.

On Thursday of next week each pupil is requested to bring some article of food. The baskets will be made up at the school and distributed to deserving families by Miss Marx, assisted by other women with cars. A thorough investigation will be made by Miss Marx so that only the most deserving families will be recipients of the baskets.

SMALLER SCHOOL CHILDREN SELL MOST CHRISTMAS SEALS

More than $135 has been raised in the sale of Red Cross Christmas seals. Most of the seals so far have been sold by the smaller school children; the elarger pupils, it seems, have not made any noteworthy progress in the work.

It is planned to have a salesman in the lobby of the postoffice Saturday and it is thought that the fund will be greatly increased by thus offering the stamps for sale while letters and packages are being mailed. There are still hopes that the amount raised this year will be as large as during the previous years.

Revenues derived from the sale of the stamps will be used for general Red Cross relief work, according to Miss Marx, and not for any special purpose directly connected with the school.

Breaking Doug

COMB SAGE TEA INTO GRAY HAIR

Darkens Beautifully and Restores Its Natural Color and Lustre At Once

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use preparation improved by the addition of other ingredients a large bottle, at little cost, at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," thus avoiding a lot of muss.

While gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared. After another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant and you appear years younger.

RED PEPPERS END RHEUMATIC PAINS

When you are suffering with rheumatism so you can hardly get around just try Red Pepper Rub and you will have the quickest relief known.

Nothing has such concentrated, penetrating heat as red peppers. Instant relief. Just as soon as you apply Red Pepper Rub you feel the tingling heat. In three minutes it warms the sore spot through and through. Frees the blood circulation, breaks up the congestion—and the old rheumatism torture is gone.

Rowles Red Pepper Rub, made from red peppers, costs little at any drug store. Get a jar at once. Use it for lumbago, neuritis, backache, stiff neck, sore muscles, colds in chest. Almost instant relief awaits you. Be sure to get the genuine, with the name Rowles on each package.

TODAY'S RECIPES

BAKED WHOLE CAULIFLOWER

By Bertha E. Shapleigh, of Columbia University.

1 large head cauliflower (cooked until tender)
3 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons flour
1-2 teaspoon salt
1-8 teaspoon pepper
2 cups milk, or 1 cup milk and 1 cup water in which cauliflower was cooked
Yolk 1 egg
1-2 cup grated cheese

Soak the cauliflower, head down, in cold water one hour. Trim, leaving the tender leaves nearest to the head on.

Cook in boiling water to which one-half teablespoon of salt is added, until the end of stalk may be pierced with a fork. Do not cook too long a time, or the flowerets will break apart. Cook with cover off kettle.

Drain, place in baking dish (if possible, one which may go to the table) cover with sauce and cheese, and bake 15 minuates in a moderate oven.

Serve at once.

In making the sauce, melt butter, add flour, salt and pepper, and the milk. Cook until smooth and thickened and then add yolk of egg and cheese and remove at once from fire.

MOVIES USED IN RELIGIOUS INSTRUCTION N LOUISVILLE

By Associated Press.

Louisville, Dec. 12.—Aid of the moving pictures in teaching shortly will be invoked at the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary here by Dr. H. C. Wayman, professor of Biblical Introduction. Reels depicting primitive and modern life and customs in the Palestine have been arranged for the trial showing.

In connection with the introduction of the moving picture screen as a mirror of knowledge at the Louisville Institution it is pointed out that John J Tigert, federal commissioner of education and formerly a member of the faculty at the University of Kentucky, was an early advocate of visual methods of education.

Dr. Wayman who made a tour of the Near East, plans to supplement the visual instruction with comment from data gathered in his investigations.

DODGE BROTHERS SEDAN

Many women who could well afford more expensive closed cars prefer the sedan for their personal use.

They find it easy to drive, easy to park, economical to run, and comparable in the beauty and richness of its appointments with cars much higher in price.

The upholstery is done in genuine mohair velvet of a singularly rich and beautiful pattern. The seats are roomy and luxurious. The hardware and minor fittings reflect thoughtfulness and rare good taste.

Steel disc wheels (with cord tires) screen the under part of the car and harmonize in a most effective way with the new grace and smartness which Dodge Brothers have recently brought to the lines of the body.

"WORSE THAN PAIN"

Louisiana Lady Says She Has "Never Found Anything Better Than Cardui for a Run-Down Condition."

Morgan City, La.—"It would be hard for me to tell how much benefit I have derived from the use of Cardui," said Mrs. I. G. Bowman, of 1319 Front Street, this city.

"I was so run-down in health I could hardly go. I was thin. I had no appetite. Could not rest or sleep well I was so weak, and so very nervous, I was no pleasure to myself.

"I suffered some pain, but the worst of my trouble was from being so weak and easy to get tired and out of heart

"This nervous condition was worse than pain.

"Some one told me of Cardui, and I decided to use it.

"After using a few bottles, I regained my strength. I wasn't so nervous, and began to eat and sleep, and grew stronger and was soon well.

"I have never found anything better for a run-down condition."

If you suffer as this Louisiana lady did, you, too, should find Cardui helpful for your troubles.
